

Walk In the Shoes (inclusive language)

1. Walk in the shoes of another for a mile and you'll know who is greater in the kingdom where all are free.
Carry on your shoulder each other's weakness and troubles
only to see who is the stronger.
At last realize the suffering each one pays to be incomplete
without a friend to understand the mis'ry and darkness which cloud the horizon of life while we try to grow into persons.

2. Kindle a fire of kindness and care
that will mellow the hardest of hearts in despair.
How long since you've waited to be trusted and loved without knowing it's your gift to love first.
Strengthen each other as you go on your way to the land of the dove where truth will be at home.
Flowing with the time as you open your eyes
to the real and the righteous where someone waits for you.

Walk in the shoes of another for a mile
and you'll know who is greater in the kingdom where all are free.
